AFTERMATH OF THE WAR

Peace has come to the warring world—the peace of the sword. Germany has signed under compulsion, and only by compulsion will she carry out the agreement to which on her behalf Herr Mueller and his colleagues set their seals at Versailles on Saturday. In calling upon the German delegates to sign the document which changes the European state system in a way that even Napoleon in the days of his greatest power was unable to change it, Premier Clemenceau said the signatures amounted to "a solemn undertaking faithfully and loyally to execute the conditions embodied by this Treaty of Peace." Not this is the treaty regarded in Germany. There it is held to be but a repudiation when the German another "sacred of paper" to be torn people feel themselves strong enough to go forth to little once more. And so the peace that was hoped for—the peace lasting for a thousand years—the spectre of war—fades from the vision, and in its place Europe has the peace of the strong man—armed.

NO CHANGE OF

GERMAN HEART

The curtain is down at Versailles, the lights are out, the audience is dispersing to the four corners of the earth. But unless under democratic government there comes to the German people a change of heart, of which they have given no evidence since the revolution of November, the drama of the Hall of Mirrors was but the prologue to another world tragedy to be played out to the last scene when the Teutonic peoples once more swarm out from the forests of the north as they have done from time to time during two and a half millennium of recorded history. The treaty, together with that which will be made within a few days with Austria, will strengthen France in population and territory and reconstitute two anti-Teutonic States, Poland and Bohemia, that played great parts in the dispersing to the four corners of the earth. The Czech, the Pole and the Slav of the Balkans may check the eastward march of the Teuton, but only by a working agreement between the Latin, the Slav and the Anglo-Saxon can the world hope to overcome the Germanic peoples. German policy will be directed unceasingly during the period of recuperation toward the detachment of the Slavs of Poland, Russia and the Balkans from the Entente and their attachment to the Germanic group. The operations of the League of Nations, if wisely conducted, may prevent the creation of rival associations of European powers. In the League and its work there is hope—the one bright gleam in a drab and depressing landscape.

GERMANIC PEOPLES STILL STRONGEST

It would be folly to ignore the fact the Germanic peoples of Central Europe are alike in population and in strength—stronger than any other group on the Continent, and that, stripped of Alsace-Lorraine, Posen, Schleswig and the parts of Western Prussia alienated under the treaty, the present Germanic Confederation embraces a population of over sixty millions, while German-Austria, which inevitably gravitates toward the Confederation, has over seven millions more of German-speaking people. France, with Alsace-Lorraine added, has less than forty millions, so that for the guarantee of Britain and the United States they will stand by France should Germany again attack her, that is, she might as well stand by the lives of many no longer young when eighty millions of Germans might set out to take their revenge upon forty-five million Frenchmen. It is because of these possibilities that for fifteen years French armies will stand upon the Rhine to guard the peace now made and, prevent Germany from building up again the mighty military power with which she set out in 1914 to achieve world conquest.

William Hohenzollern still commands the devoted loyalty of at least one of the statesmen in the days of his power surrounded his throne. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, who was Chancellor of Germany when the war began, has formally asked the Allied Powers to place him on trial instead of the former Emperor. The v. Chancellor declares that he assumes responsibility for the acts of Germany during his period of office, and therefore places himself at the disposal of the Allies.

TURKEY STILL IN DISGRACE

The end of Turkey as a factor in the affairs of the Near East is indicated by the announcement from Paris that the Council of Four has decided to send a note to the Turkish delegation now in the French capital advising the members to return to Constantinople. The Turks are notified that there is no reason to believe any agreement can be reached in the near future because of the great differences between their demands and the terms the Allies are willing to grant. Turkey will, therefore, remain under the domination of the war troops of the Allied nations until some decision is reached as to the future of the Sultan and the disposal of Constantinople. It was hoped one time that the United States would accept the mandate of the League of Nations for the guardianship of Turkey and of Armenia, but public opinion in that country is utterly hostile to the idea, and it has been abandoned.

THE CHARGE OF THE LONDON IRISH

A vivid account of an incident at Loos, which has become historic, was given by one of the London Irish Regiment who was wounded during the charge.

One set of our men—keen footballers—made a strange resolution; to take a football along with them. The platoon officer discovered this; and ordered the football to be sent back—which, of course, was carried out. But the members of the London Irish Football Club were not to be done out of the greatest game of their lives—the last to some of them, poor fellows—and just before Major Beresford gave the signal the leather turned up again mysteriously. "Suddenly the officer in command gave the signal, 'Over you go, lads!' With that the whole line sprang up as one man, some with a prayer, not a few making the sign of the Cross. But the footballers—being checked the ball over and went after it just as cool as if on the field, passing it from one to the other, though the bullets were flying as in hail, crying, 'On the ball, London Irish!' just as they might have done at Forest Hill. I believe that they actually kicked it into the enemy's trench, with the cry 'Goal!' though not before some of them had been picked off on the way.

BAYONETS FIXED

"There wasn't 44 yards between the trenches, and we had to get across the open—a manoeuvre we started just as on parade. All lined up, bayonets fixed, rifles at the slope. Once our fellows got going it was hard to get them to stop, with the result that some rushed clean into one of our own gas waves and dropped in it just before it had time to get over the enemy's trench.

"The barbed wire had been broken into smithereens by our shells, so that we could get through; but we could see that it had been terrible stuff, and we all felt we should not have had a shot of a chance of getting through had it not been for an unlimited supply of shells expended on it.

"When we reached the German trench, which we did under a cloud of smoke, we found nothing but a pack of beings dashed with terror. In a jiffy we were over their parapet and the real work began; a kind of madness came over you as you stab with your bayonet and hear the shriek of the poor devil vainly cease as the steel goes through him and you know he's 'gone west.' The beggars did not show much fight, most having retired into their second line or trenches when we began to attack their first to make it our new line of attack. That meant clearing out even the smallest nook or corner that was large enough to hold a man.

EVERY BOMBER A HERO

"This fell to the bombers. Every bomber is a hero, I think, for he has to rush on, fully exposed, laden with enough stuff to send him to 'kingdom come' if a chance shot or stumble sets him off.

"Some of the sights were awful in the hand-to-hand struggle, for, of course that is the worst part. Our own second in command, Major Beresford, was badly wounded. Captain and Adjutant Hamilton, though shot through the knee just after leaving the trench, was discovered still limping on at the second German trench, and had to be placed under arrest to prevent his going on until he bled to death.

"They got the worst of it, though, when it came to cold steel, which they can't stand, and they ran like hares. So having left a number of men in the first trench, we went to the second and then the third, after which other regiments came up to our relief, and together we took Loos. It wasn't really our job at all to take Loos, but we were swept on by the enthusiasm, I suppose, and all day long we were at it, clearing houses, after house, or rather what was left of the houses—stabbing and shooting and bombing till one felt ready to drop dead oneself. We wiped the 22nd Silesian Regiment right out, but it was horrible to work on with the cries of the wounded all round."

Paris, July 10.—The official text of the German national assembly's ratification of the peace treaty will arrive here shortly by a special courier from Albert, Baron Kurt von Lersner, head of the German peace mission, announced today in a note to Premier Clemenceau, president of the peace conference. Baron von Lersner therefore asked that the blockade against Germany be raised and that prisoners of war be liberated as soon as possible.

HE GAVE AWAY HIS LUCKY STAR

AND AN HOUR AND A HALF LATER WAS KILLED

It was in April, 1916, while the battle of St. Elou was in full swing, the 19th battalion had been in the M. and N. trenches for six days and were being relieved by an English unit, the Durham Light Infantry.

His platoon was told off to relieve a platoon of the Durhams, who were on guard at the Brasserie, an old building used as a dressing station and morgue, some distance behind the front line.

I was one of the first relief, and took over from a young Durham, who asked me if I had a spare badge to give away. I told him I had only those on my tunic.

He told me he was a "time exploder" man and was leaving for home the following day, and as the Canadians were the first division he had gone into action with, he would like to have a souvenir from one of them.

I took one of my collar badges off and gave it to him, asking for one of his in return. He stated that he had given all his away but gave me a star made from two English bullets and one French, saying: "I hope it brings you the same luck as it has brought me. I don't need it any more as I leave France for good tomorrow."

Soon after he marched off with his comrades to the front line.

About an hour and a half later I saw a party coming from the direction of the front line. I halted them and they answered "Durhams." I then advanced them, and when they came up, I noticed three of them were wounded. One of them seeing me, asked:

"Are you the chap who traded a badge for a lucky star?"

I answered "Yes."

"Well," he said, "had you traded with him just been killed. A shell hit in the trench just as we got there, killing him and wounding us three."

WATERING FARM HORSES

Walter Moore, a well known writer, says:—

"It is a common thing for farmers to work their horses in the hayfield from morning to night, watering them only at noon. This is done even on days of excessive heat. The driver usually has two or more refreshing drinks in the middle of the morning, and again in the afternoon; but the horses, who are equally thirsty, go without. This want of water is not only distressing, but it causes the horses to drink to excess at noon and again at night, which often results in colic, and always tends to produce a distended stomach, or what farmers call a 'hay belly.' Farmers who would treat their horses humanely should take water into the field for them in hot weather."

There is no doubt, although the appropriateness of some of the appellations may be questioned, that the prefix "Canadian" will stamp the position of all the boys of Canada, no matter in which of the ports of the world the carriers may be in, furthering the interests of general Canadian trade.

That is the keynote of the plan for the building by Canada of this considerable fleet—the "best interest of general Canadian trade." The long-established profitable sea-routes have been determined by privately-owned lines. There is therefore not the incentive for private lines, even where subsidized by different nations—to pioneer into new sea-ways and load for a distant port without the probability of securing a return load. While, in course of time, the trade would be developed, no private ship-owners care to shoulder the financial burden involved in such developmental work.

So, if Canadian trade was to expand, if Canadian resources were to be marketed throughout the world in Canadian bottoms—a matter of vital importance to all the people of the nation—it became necessary that they should have their own ships to complement those of other Canadian companies already in operation from certain Canadian ports. The spirit of state competition did not enter into the plan. Co-operation in the best interests of Canadian expansion was the root desire.

Mr. R. B. Teakle, a Canadian, and a man of wide experience in the steamship business, has been appointed as manager for the fleet, and his headquarters will be established at Montreal, where the fleet is being built. He is building up a staff quite competent to maintain the managing services, and he will report direct to the President's office of Canadian National at Montreal.

Already the ships of Canada's mercantile marine have commenced their work. A service has been established between Canada and various ports in the West Indies, and there is now a direct service between Canada and South America. Several vessels have been ordered, and the fleet is being built up to carry the general merchandise to the ports in the West Indies, returning with sugar from those of the Empire's tropics.

One of the largest vessels has already been established a direct service between Canada and the Argentine Republic. It was loaded in Canada with general merchandise, including cement, agricultural implements and steel goods and cleared for Buenos Aires.

These services to open up desirable trade routes for the benefit of Canadian trade generally will assuredly be maintained so long as there is possibility of tonnage at all. But probably the most significant services the ships of Canada's own mercantile marine will be performing during the next few years, at any rate, will be the carrying of foodstuffs to the United Kingdom and other countries in Europe. In this connection it may be said that full cargoes have already been booked for Liverpool and the chances are that these ships of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, operating in connection with the trains of Canadian National Railways, should prove to be of most material assistance to the producers all over the world.

The grain growers on the western plains, in that there is the prospect of an abundance of cargo space for the export of his products to the countries which will be the biggest buyers for the next few years.

The venture by the Canadian people into the business of carrying by water is only in its infancy. The present fleet should be the nucleus of a larger fleet of state-owned vessels carrying Canadian goods to other Canadian ports to every point reached by water capable of purchasing Canadian products and furnishing to the Canadian people the materials utilized by Canada in the daily business and life of the people.

The design of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, operating in the upper left hand corner, should be seen flying in almost all the great ports of the world. It is certain that the national viewpoint through the new interest that will have to be displayed by the people as a whole through their carriers on all the seven seas.

ROD AND GUN FOR JULY
Anyone reading "Fish, Fishing and Fishermen" by George R. Bellin, in Rod and Gun in Canada for July can not help thinking of the good old days when a bent pin, a piece of string and a willow switch made the best fishing tackle for shiners, chubs and rock bass.

"The Albino Bass of the Ottawa" is the title of a real fishing story from "The Dominion Capital" which is one of the several good stories in the national outdoor magazine for July. The six illustrations showing the capture of a Newfoundland salmon are the best this year. They accompany a splendid article on the Humber, King of Atlantic Salmon Streams. The interesting "Fishing Months, Guns and Ammunition, Fishing Notes, Conservation, Kannel and Trap are all up to their usual standard, and along with the excellent illustration of that interesting story, "The Bear of Silver Dale," go to make up one of the best summer issues of the Canadian National Sporting Monthly.

Books of Rod and Gun in Canada can be obtained from any bookstore or direct from the publishers, W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Dominion Forest Rangers, Provincial Government Employees, and Settlers Have Made a Noble Fight Against the Fires, and Have Now Subdued Them.

"The forest fire appears to be under control now," said Hon. John R. Boyle, attorney-general on his return Thursday evening from a visit to the area west of Calgary, where for days past rangers of the Dominion government, provincial government employees, and settlers have been fighting to prevent the spread of the conflagration which has been raging on both sides of the Elbow river. Mr. Boyle came down from Edmonton yesterday for the purpose of investigating the situation. He drove out during the afternoon, and several hours among the fire fighters.

Thirty provincial employees, members of the police force and others, stated that a large number of settlers are assisting in the task. Mr. Boyle from Okotoks are now making an organized effort to check the encroachment of the fire on their side of the river, while others from Dog Pound and other districts are working night and day to keep the fire under control. He believes that there is now no cause for alarm. The attorney-general left on the night train for the north.

Up to a late hour last night, Dominion Forestry Inspector E. H. Finlayson had received no reports upon conditions at the Bow river reserve. The Chester reserves, and the May fire. Unofficial reports from the fire on the Elbow river state that the rangers are working uninterruptedly to keep the fire under control, and that the fire is being kept under control.

The fire at Sheep Creek is still under control, and it is expected that this fire is safely controlled. The men that left Calgary for the Clearwater on Wednesday are expected to arrive on the scene of operations some time today, and the men who have been fighting the flames continuously for two weeks will be awarded a brief respite.

URGING U.S. TO PUT MEXICO ON HER FEET
Washington, July 11.—Renewed attention has been made to the United States government by Great Britain and France, it was learned today at the state department. For several months these countries have been urging upon the United States the desirability of putting Mexico on her feet, so that she might resume her position as a normal and independent, and afford adequate protection to foreign lives and property.

British citizens are holders of a considerable amount of Mexican bonds, both national and railways, while the French have extensive investments in the banks, which it has

Washington, July 10.—Aided by a westerly wind that sometimes reached a velocity of nearly 40 miles an hour, the British dirigible R-34 to night was well out over the Atlantic on the return trip to East. Fortuna, Scotland, after a stay of 56 hours in America. The last message from the airship, received late today by the navy department, gave her position at that time at 600 miles due east of Bar Harbor, Maine, and more than 1,000 miles from Mineola, Long Island, from which she started last midnight.

AVERAGES 60 MILES AN HOUR
The dirigible, according to a wireless report received by the navy department throughout the day, averaged more than 60 miles per hour for the first fifteen hours of the return flight, and at times the dirigible's speed reached between 75 and 80 miles per hour. The dirigible thus was making better time than at any period of the flight to this side of the Atlantic, and the weather conditions remain favorable, naval officers here believe.

The first word heard from the R-34 after the big dirigible left the American shore this morning was a radio message sent at 4 a.m. giving the ship's position as 120 miles due east from Long Island. Direct communication was maintained with the department thereafter. At 10 a.m. a message said the dirigible was then making 58 knots an hour, equivalent to about 64 land miles. An hour later the R-34 signalled that the wind was becoming stronger, and that the dirigible's speed had reached 80 miles an hour at that time.

THE LAST WEATHER REPORT
The last weather report sent to the R-34 from here tonight said that a storm center over Newfoundland was moving due east, and that another Ontario was moving towards Newfoundland. Strong westerly winds were predicted over the western Atlantic as far as the 50th Meridian, and probably much further. The weather reports, compiled by Forecaster Bowie, concluded:

"You will have strong westerly winds next 24 or 36 hours, with some clouds and a falling barometer. My advice is to keep well south, and take advantage of the westerly winds attending rapid eastward movement of disturbances north of latitude 45. Good luck and a quick trip."

WELL CONNECTED
YOUNG MAN GOES TO PENITENTIARY
Winipeg, July 11.—Edward Cook, alias Doc Lahay, a university graduate in medicine, and the only son of Edward Cook, Leicester, England, millionaire flour merchant, was sentenced in police court today by Magistrate Macdonald to three years at Stony Mountain penitentiary on a charge of burglary. Cook pleaded guilty to theft of $200 worth of liquor and drugs from a drug store. Louis Morosanic, his solicitor, revealed Cook's identity in a plea for leniency for his client.

An unhappy marriage in the United States in 1913 is alleged to have led to Cook's downfall. Cook had left England for Canada three years previously to study medicine, and was a physician. He drifted into the United States and married there. Later, when the alleged character of his wife was revealed to him, he left her and began to drink heavily. His thirst finally caused his fall. He could not resist the promise of liquor to be found in the drug store, and with the help of two others, he broke into the store. He fled to Vancouver in February and was arrested on his return to the city.

KNOXCHURCH MEMORIAL PULPIT
A most fitting tribute and memorial to the men of the church who fell in the service of King and Country was dedicated to the glory of God in the presence of a large congregation in Knox Church, Red Deer, this morning. The pulpit is of solid oak in the front panel of which the following inscription is skillfully carved:

TRIBUTE AND MEMORIAL

They Gave Their Lives For Others
The pulpit was draped with two handsome flags, a Union Jack and a Canadian flag, and was unveiled by Wm. Crookes and Dave Wright, two comrades-in-arms of the men to whose memory the pulpit was dedicated. Mr. Brown preached from the text in Mark 13:31. "He saved others, himself he saved not." The order of the service was simple but the spirit of quietness and reverence made it impressive and helpful to old and young alike.

CANADA'S DEBT.

In commenting upon the recent budget speech the Toronto Mail and Empire calls attention to the fact that of the total outstanding securities of the Dominion Government $1,510,000,000 are held in Canada. Another loan is to be issued by the Government to the Canadian people, and the huge net debt will amount to about $1,550,000,000 by the time the war accounts are closed. There are very formidable figures. As the Finance Minister points out, they would be far more formidable if the borrowed money were held for principally been obtained from money lenders outside of the country. It is a great comfort to feel that the bond issues on which vast sums of $1,510,000,000 were raised are in the hands of Canadians. The money was raised in this country, and the annual interest will be distributed throughout the country, and the principal eventually paid to our own people. If our great war debt were owed to people outside of Canada the $100,000,000 or so of interest to be paid out every year upon it would be so much money removed from the country instead of being distributed in the country. If, instead of being held by Canadians this $1,510,000,000 of Canadian Government securities were held by investors belonging to other nations, the repayment of that debt and the payment of its annual interest charges would be hardly less irksome than the paying of a war indemnity of the same magnitude. Canada has great reason to be thankful that she had the resources within her own bounds to bear the financial strain of the war. Nobody needs to be told, of course, that the basis of the national credit is ample to sustain a total net debt of nearly two billion dollars, such as will have to be borne when the financing for the war and demobilization is completed. Canada has a national estate rich enough to carry a debt of many times that magnitude. The gratifying thing which the war has brought out is the financial readiness of the Canadian people themselves to take up Government bonds amounting to $1,510,000,000. That is proof not only of Canada's natural riches and wonderful opportunities, but also of the Canadian people's productive industry and thrift. As the Finance Minister shows, the burden this war leaves on the shoulders of the Canadian people will have to be borne for years, and for the carrying of it and gradual easing of the strain the same habits of thrift and industry will have to be borne for years. Our people are not daunted by the outlook. They are full of hope and believe that this huge war debt will melt away as many a towering difficulty has in the past melted away before the stout spirit and strong self-control of the unworried Canadian people.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF PINE LAKE, No. 339, ALBERTA

The Western Municipal News, for June, 1919, has the following copy of the above district's annual statement: "We have received from the Secretary-Treasurer of the above district,

FIREMEN'S SMOKER AND SOCIAL

ROLL OF HONOR UNVEILED

On Friday evening last a large number of friends and the members of the City Council, by invitation, met the men of the Fire Brigade in their recreation room at the fire hall for the purpose of unveiling a roll of honor to the past and present members of the Brigade who have served King and country in the Great War now happily ended, and to spend a social evening with them.

That they were all present to the honours of the evening right royally was quite evident as the various members came loaded up with good things for the inner man. It was quite pathetic to see little Harry Russell struggling upstairs with a huge cake in his arms, while Ansett was hard at work squashing lemons for the lemonade. In fact, Chief Taylor had all hands at work preparing for the great event. His Worship W. E. Lord, Mayor of the city, was early on the scene, and on taking the chair thanked most cordially the members of the Brigade for the honour in asking him to preside at the gathering that night, and also to unveil the roll of honor to their comrades. He made a happy little speech, after drawing the red and blue flags to one side, alluding to some of the names as men who were personally known to himself, some of whom had returned with honours, some were on their way home, and some, alas, would never return; but all had done their duty nobly, and the city was proud of them.

Four communities could boast of such a large number of men going to the front as thirty-two, six of whom had made the supreme sacrifice, whilst the average roll call of the Brigade is twenty-three. The chairman next called upon Percy Kent to come to the piano and play "Soldiers of the King." Percy was understood to say he couldn't because a big German had kicked him on the knee when his back was turned; however, after much persuasion, he came and played, and the whole audience stood and sang the first verse and chorus. They didn't sing the second verse in the room, and it was understood that the song was to be sung in the hall. The roll call of the Brigade was then called upon to give an account of himself, but instead devoted all his time to the boys, told what a nice and good bunch they were, what a lot he was going to do for them when he got some money. I suppose when he reads this, he will contradict it. After he sat down, the boys having cheered him to the echo, he spoke Commissioner Stephenson smoking a cigarette, and at once complained to the chairman that Stephenson was doing the smoking for all the Council, and Stephenson retorted that the Alderman was doing the talking for all the Council, and His Worship reminded them they were not in the Council chamber.

Chief Anderson was then asked to sing a song, but he declared he couldn't, as he had forgotten all about music, and besides his wife had gone out and taken the key of the street with her. Chief Clerk Ayres advised him to try and get in through the keyhole, and Charlie said he'd try. Rubie Gee then sang the "Miner" or "Down in a Coal Mine," and as the boys said they didn't want to go there, they made him sing again. I wished they hadn't, I felt sorry for him and for all of us, for he couldn't sing for laughing, and I'm afraid they won't ask him again.

Commissioner Stephenson then went on the stump, and he gave a most interesting account of the Fire Brigade, their early struggles to cope with fires in the early days of Red Deer, when there was practically no appliances to work with. He also paid warm tribute to the way Chief Taylor had managed to get volunteers for the Brigade from older men. After Chief Meeres and the younger men had gone to the war, and great credit was due to the men who had rallied round the fire chief during the difficult times we have passed through.

Ed. Martin sang the "Diver," and as usual came in for a great ovation. Ald. Stone was then called upon to say something and responded nobly. In the old days he and all the other young fellows used to run with their own buckets of water when there was a fire to put it out, but since the blamable fire brigade had become so efficient with their new fangled appliances they put a fire out almost before it got started and took all the joy out of life.

Charlie Anderson having returned with some music, he was ordered to start in at once. You should have seen the Chief, no wonder the Kaiser skipped over to Holland when he knew Charlie was about. Stephenson suggested he should adopt the trows and the kilts instead of the brocade, he'd make a brave figure, the kids would be kept out of mischief at the sight of him—no, he didn't say anything about the girls. He said, "Hanks of Bonnie Loch Lomond," and the boys helped him with a will.

Ald. Simpson came in during the singing and apologized for being late, as he had been deputed to see if the shows at the south end of the city were up to standard.

Just then if the fire gong didn't go off nineteen to the dozen, and in the twinkling of an eye if one whole fire brigade didn't drop through the floor, somebody said they would have dropped quicker but for a Bullock in the way, and the next instant the fire wagons were tearing down Ross street like mad. The Mayor said, "now that's smart work, only six and a half seconds from the first sound of the gong to rushing down the street; there isn't another brigade anywhere could beat it." Cappy Smart, at up and take notice, said that they have spent the night after night for weeks together at the fire hall so as in case of a call during the night, the call would be answered; and it speaks well for the promptness with which a call is met and the efficiency of the service rendered that the loss per capita by fire in Red Deer is only 50 cents, whilst for Canada it amounts to about four dollars.

The Mayor and Aldermen of the city responded gladly to the invitation to their social spent by Chief Taylor and his men, to show at least their appreciation of the loyal service rendered so willingly to ensure the safety of the citizens.

The honor roll is a work of art, the decorative gifts of Mr. A. T. Bagciol, a returned member of the Brigade, being seen to great advantage therein.

His heading is: "Firemen of this Brigade serving overseas, 1914-1918." Suspended from lined staves are pictured the folds of the Union Jack and the Canadian flag, with the crest of the Red Deer Fire Department, while the central pillar had the words "Roll of Honor." The scroll work and coloring of the design were admirable, and the Department have great reason to be proud of their beautiful memorial, with the draped flags enclosing the frame.

The names on the roll are: Cosgrove, T. Royal Scots; Wightwick, H.M. 5th Battalion; Scott, W. 21st Battalion; Horne, J. 31st Battalion; Wright, J. 31st Battalion; Jackson, W. 31st Battalion; Cookson, W. 12th C.M.R.; Warren, D. 12th C.M.R.; Meeres, R. 12th C.M.R.; Gee, R. * Killed in action.

Rubie Gee brought the concert to a close by singing "Smiles," and we all smiled because the boys were at last bringing the ice cream, cakes, lemonade (and there wasn't any Scotch), on which we felt with a will.

When I came away, with great reluctance, because the Aldermen were leaving, Teddy Haste had charge of the gramophone and was kept out of mischief winding it up; Patchett was still presiding at the piano. The rest of the company were enjoying themselves immensely in various ways.

We kept His Worship and Chief Anderson and another policeman there to see that the boys all went home when the curfew bell rang.

As a last word, may I add that the citizens of Red Deer are under great obligation to the men of our local Fire Brigade for the prompt and efficient service that is rendered to us voluntarily at considerable sacrifice of time and comfort. During the past three years some of them have slept night after night for weeks together at the fire hall so as in case of a call during the night, the call would be answered; and it speaks well for the promptness with which a call is met and the efficiency of the service rendered that the loss per capita by fire in Red Deer is only 50 cents, whilst for Canada it amounts to about four dollars.

McCLARY'S FAMOUS STEEL RANGES

IT'S THE WAY
THEY'RE MADE THAT COUNTS

In selecting a range for your home you naturally wish to get the best for your money. You do not buy a stove often, consequently when you buy you wish to buy right.

McCLARY RANGES have particularly special features which make them sought after by the most discriminating buyers.

SPECIAL FEATURES.—The linings of the Fire Pot are made of Semi-Steel, thus insuring greater life to the castings. The Oven is one of the very strong features of McClary Ranges. A special Flue construction distributes the heat evenly to all parts of the oven. The oven bakes as perfectly on the heavy wire centre rack which slides in and out easily, as on the oven bottom. The Flues are practically indestructible, being made of American Ingot Iron, which is impervious to sulphurous and other injurious gases. The Burnished Top is a feature which appeals to every housewife. No Black Lead needed to clean, simply wipe off with a cloth. The Fuel Saver is a wonderful economizer of fuel and may be used for numerous purposes. 1. To act as a check to the fire. 2. If left wide open it will retain a hot fire for hours without attention. Thus the heat will be held in the stove instead of going up the chimney, a great saving in fuel. 3. It helps collect the steam odors, etc., that rise from the cooking and carries them up the chimney. The Neat Nickle Trimming and general design of the stove appeal to every housewife.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. GEO. D. ARMSTRONG

And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.—1 Thess. 5:23

The words of this text is the final and most important of a series of injunctions in which the Apostle exhorts the church at Thessalonica to Christian unity and helpfulness, to Christian optimism and enthusiasm, as also to the duty of discrimination of all religious utterance. They were to prove all things and hold fast that which is good.

Very wide differences of interpretation will arise in the application of our text to our religious experience in the present day, and it is of the greatest importance, lest bitterness and unseemly bickering should arise, that we should not disparage the faith and practice of those whose views of Christian doctrine may differ widely from our own.

At the same time, it is quite as essential that those, who do not accept the ideas of certain modern professors of holiness, who maintain that the text has a distinct reference to a second blessing, should vindicate the truth of their contention and set forth clearly the ideas which they themselves hold.

The words of Whittier express the spirit in what I find would set forth my personal position on this debatable question. To these evangelistic teachers I would say—

"I trace your line of argument; Your logic linked and strong I weigh as one who dreads dissent And fears a doubt as wrong. But still my human hands are weak To hold your iron creed; Against the words you bid me speak My heart within me pleads. I walk with bare, hushed feet the ground Ye tread with boldness shod; I dare not fix with motto and bound The love and power of God. Ye see the curse which overbroods A world of pain and loss; I hear our Lord's beatitudes And pray upon those crosses. Not mine to look where cherubim And seraphs may not see, But nothing can be good in Him Which evil is in me. The wrong that pains my soul be low I dare not throne above; I know not of His hate,—I know His goodness and His love. The God to whom Paul prays is not a God of contention but of peace, who 'high throned on heaven's eternal hill, sweetly orders all that is,—the God whose goodness and mercy, revealed in Jesus Christ, leads men to repentance and to lives of consecrated devotion.' From Him, through Him and unto Him are all things. Because of His love we have been called into being. He has created man for Himself. He has provided for the life of man the abounding resources of earth and heaven. He redeems man by His sovereign grace and shall not rest 'till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, into a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

Conversion or regeneration, whether it comes as a flash of light from midnight darkness or as the light of dawn, is the soul's awakening to the knowledge of God. It is the spiritual evolution of mankind, the result of that divine agency by which we live and have our being. Conversion is the birth of the soul to a new life of conscious fellowship with God. And this life must be lived in many stages to perfection. It is futile to try to express spiritual life in terms of mathematics. Indeed nearly all the great controversies which have torn Christianity asunder have been the result of a vain attempt to make the laws of mathematics apply to the sphere of theology. The ways of the spirit are manifold and the operation of His grace without number.

"Sanctification" is growth in grace, it is the natural order of religious experience; it is the widening of man's horizon in all things to include God. It is the bringing of our whole nature into harmony with the laws of God. It is making the will of God to apply to all man's relationships till in all our ways we acknowledge Him and do all things to please Him.

What then is "entire sanctification"? It is the maturity of Christian experience and consists in loving one another as Christ loves his disciples. The Jewish ideal of perfection was that we should love God with all our mind, soul and strength, and our neighbors as ourselves. The Christian ideal of holiness is the Master Himself. A new commandment give I unto you, "that ye should love one another, as I have loved you. On this holiness will I abide, and the life of the present organization.

"If they can prove 'red' the charter of the Council will be revealed by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and a new council will be formed.

"If they are shown to be the ones of the Dominion Congress and the A.F.O.L. against the One Big Union and radicalism.

"Such is the statement of the men in charge of the fight of the big labor federation against the One Big Union and the radicalism in labor.

"R. A. Rice, general organizer for the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress in western Canada, will call upon the members of the trades and labor council Tuesday night for a declaration of faith.

"If radicals attempt to gain control of the meeting and swing the council behind a permanent radical policy, a stiff fight is expected to develop, and if such a move is successful the permanent outlawing of the council from the ranks of organized labor is expected to follow."

"Oh, for a good rain storm," is the slogan of the day. "Cut worms have somewhat ceased their operations in this district and a fair crop is looked for.

Hot-weather rules for horses

1. Load lightly, and drive slowly. 2. Stop in the shade if possible. 3. Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay.

4. When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the neck. Wash his feet but not his legs.

5. If the thermometer is 75 degrees "or higher, give him all over with a lamp sponge, using vinegar water if possible. Do not wash the horse at night.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of sulphur.

7. Do not use a horse-hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.

8. A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

9. If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

10. If the horse coughs at his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

11. Watch your horse. If he stops

WENT ALMOST ROUND WORLD

SPENT OVER FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS. SEEKING HEALTH—RESTORED BY TANLAC

Like the man who went to Alaska in search of gold, leaving a lump of the precious metal worth a fortune lying under his doorsteps, thousands of men annually seek health by means of Tanlac. The health resorts are thronged, the hospitals filled, and millions of dollars are spent by those suffering from stomach trouble and the many complications resulting from it, when, if they would only believe it, relief can be obtained at a cost almost too small to mention.

The evidence, regarding the value of Tanlac in the treatment of all forms of stomach trouble is too conclusive to even admit of doubt. In every city, town and community throughout the United States and Canada there are many living, enthusiastic witnesses to the merits of the Master Medicine. One of the most interesting of the many statements recently received was made by Mrs. W. A. Southerland, residing at 550 South Second Street, Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Southerland is one of the best known and respected women of Springfield. She said:

"What Tanlac has accomplished in my case has been the most complete restoration of my life. I can hardly tell you how to express the gratitude I really feel over what it has done for me. I had been suffering from stomach trouble and nervousness for eleven years and have been treated by some of the best specialists, not only in this country, but also in London, England and Old Mexico. We have travelled almost around the world and spent over five thousand dollars trying to get my health restored, but nothing ever helped me. In fact, I kept getting worse until I began taking Tanlac. I suffered almost beyond words to express from cramps and pains in my stomach after every meal, and was so nervous that I just trembled all the time. I could not sleep and was right on the verge of nervous prostration. I could find no comfortable position at night; my head throbbed and seemed to beat against the pillows, and when morning came, I felt exhausted.

"Some of the specialists called my trouble nervous indigestion. Anyway, I could not even eat milk toast without suffering, and for a long time I lived almost entirely on milk. When we came back to Springfield I was so discouraged and downhearted that I told my husband there was no use trying any longer, that there was no help for me. About this time I began reading what others said Tanlac had done for them, and decided to try it as a last resort. Well, I soon had a good appetite, got so I could digest my food and my suffering ceased. So I bought more Tanlac, and a few bottles have completely restored my health, and not only myself, but my husband and all who knew of my dreadful condition, have been surprised at the results I have gotten from Tanlac. I am never the least bit nervous any more, never know what it is to have a restless night, and enjoy myself and my daily work. I have a pain or an uncomfortable feeling afterwards. I no longer have that tired, worn-out look with that dull, weary eyes, but my complexion has cleared up and I look and feel like a different woman altogether. I am making this statement because I have people who may be suffering as I did to know they can get relief without travelling the world over as I did. I can never praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., in Stottler by Palace Pharmacy, Ltd., in Skivville by Edible Drug Co., in Vesperan by Veteran Drug Store, and in Delburne by E. J. Hodge.

C.P.R. OFFERS CUP FOR HARD SPRING WHEAT

In connection with the International Soil Products' Exposition, which will be held at Kansas City, Mo., September 24th to October 4th, the Department of Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway is offering a silver cup of the value of $500 for the best hard bushel of hard spring wheat exhibited. It is hoped that every farmer in Alberta, who has a good sample of wheat this year, will submit a hard bushel in this competition. Those competing for this cup will automatically become competitors for the prizes offered by the International Farming Congress in this class which include a first, second and third prize, in addition they have a chance of winning the sweepstakes prize for wheat. The winning sample of hard spring wheat is usually the best exhibit of wheat shown at the exposition and thus wins the sweepstakes prize, and the exhibits from Western Canada generally carry all before them in this class. Last year the C.P.R. cup, the sweepstakes prize for wheat and the first prize for hard spring wheat were won by Seager Wheeler, of Rosedale, Sask., with T. B. Sheehy, of High River, Alberta, a good second. No cup was offered by the C.P.R. in 1917, but the sweepstakes for wheat and the first prize for hard spring wheat were won by Samuel Larcombe, of Bltlo, Manitoba, in that year.

In addition to the above, other valuable prizes will be offered for every variety of field crops. Of late years farmers from Western Canada have carried away a lion's share of these prizes, and no doubt their exhibits will be conspicuous again this year. An official premium list of the exposition should be ready in a few days, and a copy can no doubt be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the International Farm Congress at Kansas City, Mo.

Humor Of J. W. Leonard

His Scrap Book and His Well Done Work

The late James J. W. Leonard, formerly general superintendent of the C. P. R., in Toronto, was one of that picturesque type of railroad man who was passing into history.

The older generation will recall the figure he made a quarter of a century ago when he was superintendent of the C. P. R. He wore a frock coat, a wide-brimmed slouch hat, and smoked a pipe of elegant proportion.

"He had become a sort of landmark. It was a symbol around the C. P. R. To it, one came for the brief, business-like 'yes' or 'no' that characterized 'Bessie' Leonard's abrupt and efficient administration. But the hat began to show signs of decay. However jauntily 'J. W.' looked it was old, it wilted and faded. So his good friend, W. R. Callaway, now general passenger agent of the Soo line, took Mr. Leonard up on the hat question and urged him to get a new one.

"What for?" demanded J. W. "Nobody would know me in another hat! This is my crown! Nothing doing!"

Mr. Callaway finally offered to buy a new hat, and J. W. said: "You're on."

A new derby was purchased, sleek, and in the latest fashion of the eighteen nineties. J. W. put it on, and ordered the famous old slouch hat to be sent home.

Next morning, J. W. appeared on the job in the old slouch hat! Another anecdote indicates the late Mr. Leonard's quiet but effective method of brushing away the vanities of a young man applied for a job to him. This young man was sporting a walking stick.

"I'm afraid we can't do anything for you," said Mr. Leonard. "We can't use a lame man."

"But I'm not lame!" protested the applicant.

"Then why do you limp?" asked J. W.

The applicant got the job, but he discarded the stick and also a certain frame of mind out of which the stick arose.

Mr. Leonard was a man of few words, a trait that endeared him to his many friends and which secured him in the high esteem of the thousands of business men with whom he dealt for the railway.

His GREAT LOVE OF WORK

Deep down in the recesses of his nature, it would appear that the late J. W. Leonard, whose life-nets was "I want to do the work entrusted to me in the very best way that I can," should have been eager for the approbation of his fellows. In a scrapbook, containing the clippings of newspaper articles for the past twenty years, there is a letter from Lord Shaughnessy, congratulating him upon the manner in which he had moved the wheat crop out during his first year as assistant superintendent of the western division. It is evident that he valued the letter as an evidence of work well done, rather than as the approval of the head of the system.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

Will Have Over Half the Staff New Teachers

At the regular meeting of the Red Deer Public School Board on Wednesday evening, there were present: Mr. Gaetz, chairman, Mr. Welton, secretary, Dr. Parsons and Principal Locke. Four hundred and thirty-one new teachers had been secured for the coming year, and it was estimated that the board would have over half the staff new teachers.

Correspondence

Principal Dick, of the Alberta Academy, Lacombe, wrote very kindly in reply to the letter of thanks sent him by the board in response to his attention to them on their manual training visit to Lacombe.

The Department of Education forwarded $14.85, to make good a clerical error in the school grant. Principal Locke, in checking over the amount received from the department for the half year, had discovered the error.

The Debenture branch of the Department of Education wrote on the 10th inst. inquiring of the board as to the contract for 5000 school scribbles at $38.50, their tenders being the lowest.

Principal Locke forwarded $46.80 High School Students trust account, which included the sum of $2.00 for applying in the purchase of dishes for Art, Hobbies, etc., but the disposition of which would be left to the board. The money will be deposited in a trust account.

Principal's Report

Principal Locke presented the report of the schools for June. There were 39 non-resident pupils in the High School, the revenue from whom should be $52.67. On the rolls of the schools there were 19 names, 107 in the High and 515 in the Public, which shows how our pupils compare with the highest number in the province in one month was 535.

Accounts

The following accounts were passed for payment: Day Hardware Co., $25.82; J. A. Gaetz-Corlett Co., $26.29; W. G. Electric Co., $22.67; B. Haste, $2; N. M. Burnett, $19.05; R. D. Tent & Mattress Co., $17.00; A. Ewell, $2.50; McRendell Engraving Co., $3.60; Red Deer Advocate, $15.50; H. Kelly, on account, $15; C. D. Locke, $13.30; J. Malcolm Co., coal, $143.50.

The Teachers

Of the public school teachers Miss Myrtle Smith, Miss Dyer, Miss Munro, Miss Jean Ramsey, Miss Springfield, Mr. Fowler, accepted re-engagement. Miss Elbert resigned. The board understood to accept insurance office engagement in Edmonton. Miss Elita Smith goes to Cumrore to join the Calgary practice school at a considerably increased salary. Mrs. Parker wishes time further consideration.

Of the High School staff, Mr. Brodie's engagement as Principal was accepted. Mr. S. H. H. Kelly, Yarmouth, N.S., accepted engagement in Miss Nelson's place. Miss Goudie resigned, owing to dissatisfaction with the increase granted her after six years' service, as compared with the salary voted the new Principal.

In 1915 the Principal's salary was $500, hers $200; in 1918 the Principal's salary was $1050, hers $1150. In 1919 the new Principal is to get $2200, and she was only offered $1650. She considered the amount too great, in view of the past arduous service of three teachers taking a four-teacher school, in view of the unusually high standing of the school at the departmental examinations, and in view of the fact that if the Principal had to do more supervising work than the late Principal could do and was to be paid accordingly. Increased responsibility and work would rest on the other High School teachers, for which they would not be adequately paid. She could not believe, she said, that there was discrimination because of her sex and it was equally hard to believe that they were governed in their decision by mere caprice or guess work.

The chairman was in favour of holding over Miss Goudie's letter until there was a full board. Mr. Welton considered that, if an increase of $100 would hold Miss Goudie, he would be in favour of making her salary $1750. The chairman stated that the action of the board in declining to reconsider closed the matter positively. Mr. Welton considered that if the board had put itself into such an irreconcilable position, it was unfortunate; her argument should receive some consideration. The chairman replied that the board had to deal with such a question as Miss Goudie's salary according to her best judgment, and perhaps, decide it on a broader basis than merely appear to any individual teacher. The letter went over to the next meeting.

THE HILLSDOWN PICNIC

The Hillside and Valley Centre Red Cross Helpers had a most successful outing on Wednesday afternoon on the beautiful level grounds of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Moschenross, Hillside. It was a lovely afternoon, but the desire for rain, which seems very slow in coming, though the crops are not looking too badly. The event of the day was the baseball match between Hillside and Willowdale, which was won by the former in a seven innings game by 19 to 11. The Willowdale nine claim to have been without the service of their regular pitcher and W. Day filed the bill with fair success until he fired, and E. Hueste relieved him. The Hillside boys took kindly to the offer, and pitched up a bunch of runs which put the game on ice. Mr. W. K. Violen, umpire, most satisfactorily. The teams were:

Willowdale—W. Day, p. 3b, p. rf; Lloyd McCall, cf; A. Abbott, 1b; Addy Henderson, 2b; E. Hueste, 3b, p. 3b; H. Evans, ss; J. Day, lf; Harold Rumb, cf; F. Towers, rf; E. Macdonald, ss; p. Y. Mayhew, lf; J. Macdonald, cf; C. Usherwood, rf.

The horse race was won by Y. Mayhew on Lyle Brown's horse, of Pine Lake, was first in the lady's race, with Miss Fluke second. The cowboy's race was won by Norman Pike. The hockey contest caused lots of excitement. None of the riders were thrown in the regular trials which saw Bud Turner first, and J. Hocken, Halvey, second. In a subsequent exhibition a fighting game Turner was a close runner-up, not on the program, came in a runaway chase for the mounts. Norman Pike nullified the runner-up, through not without a toss himself as they felt the rope tight.

The ladies served refreshments and the dance at the schoolhouse in the afternoon was largely attended, the financial proceeds of the day being very satisfactory.

BOARD OF TRADE COUNCIL

At the quarterly meeting of the Board of Trade on Monday evening there were present: President Maxwell, Mr. Malcolm, S. I. Pamley, R. G. Dave, B. S. Hogg, B. W. Walker, Fred Turnbull, Rev. Armstrong, T. A. Gaetz, R. S. Gaetz.

The matter of roads was again up for discussion, and Mr. Welton finally agreed to take the matter in hand with the co-operation of the members of the board.

The committee appointed to arrange for the entertainment of the visiting editors in August reported, and suggested that the editors be entertained at the hotel, and that the different societies of the churches be asked to assist in providing breakfast. The board and that the different societies of the churches be asked to assist in providing breakfast. The board and that the different societies of the churches be asked to assist in providing breakfast.

The board decided to pay the account of the C.P.R. for rental of the spur into the wharves.

Mr. Welton had taken up the matter of a week-end rate from Calgary and Edmonton to Sylvan Lake with the C.P.R. officials at Calgary. The C.P.R. replied that the week-end rate to Gull Lake was established some years ago and at present there was not much chance of a rate to Sylvan Lake. When there were enough Calgary citizens interested, a rate might be established.

A letter of thanks was received from the Sylvan Lake Publicity Association thanking the board for their interest in trying to secure a week-end rate to the Lake.

Mr. S. I. Pamley was appointed to procure information as to accommodation for Fair visitors and to co-operate with the Fair board in arranging to take care of those who wished to remain over night.

The board adjourned at 9.45 p.m.
